

ACCREDITATION STATEMENT

The American Academy of Disability Evaluating Physicians (AADEP) designates this educational activity for a maximum of 15 AIMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

The American Academy of Disability Evaluating Physicians is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

EDUCATIONAL NEEDS

- Many providers and adjusters fail to appreciate the extent to which psychological factors influence physical symptoms, claim filing, treatment failures, and disability
- There is a new edition of the DSM
- Knowledge deficits exist regarding diagnosis, treatment, causation analysis, disability assessment, impairment rating, and report writing for mental health disorders

OBJECTIVES

- Upon completing this course, the physician-learner should:
- Describe the psychological diagnoses commonly seen in a claims context and appropriate treatment for them
 - Identify the psychological and neurologic basis for chronic pain
 - Improve his or her "bedside manner"
 - Describe how DSM-5 differs from its predecessor
 - Identify WHODAS and functional assessment in mental health
 - Describe causation analysis, disability assessment, and impairment rating for mental health disorders
 - Explain how to write a psychiatric IME report
 - Recognize the interaction between sleep and pain
 - Identify the process for neuropsychological testing
 - Identify risks and how to minimize them to prevent injury and costs

JURISDICTIONAL APPLICABILITY

Two presentations on Sunday are specific to Washington state workers' compensation claims: Causation Analysis in Washington State and Rating Psychiatric Impairment in Washington. All other talks are generic, generally having national or international applicability.
